Information We Collect and How We Use It

We do NOT collect any of your personal information on our site. If you send us a message through our site, any information you provide is stored internally and not directly on the website. It will be used to return correspondence with you via email, phone and/or text. Any information discussed will be considered confidential and kept private internally. Additionally, when you provide us with your email address, you are granting us permission to share information with you through a newsletter, marketing email or other notice(s). At any time, you may unsubscribe to stop receiving these email communications by clicking the unsubscribe link provided. Upon receipt of this unsubscribe request, your email information will be removed from the master list and you will no longer receive further email informational communications.

How We Protect Your Information

Your information will be kept confidential in our company database and does not authorize access to anyone outside of our company, unless requested by a court of law.

Who Has Access to the Information?

In addition to the use of your information as described above, your information will be shared only as required by law, in a matter of public safety or policy, or as needed in connection with the transfer of business assets. We do not share information for third-party marketing purposes. We do share information with consulting organizations with your prior permission.

Links to Other Companies' Sites

Our website contains links to resource sites maintained by companies that are not affiliated with us. We are not responsible for their privacy practices or their content. We encourage you to do your own research when visiting these sites by reviewing their privacy policies before proceeding.

Privacy Policy Changes

If our information practices change in a significant way, we will post and highlight the policy changes.
